

Press Contacts

Jim Conroy, CEO, Spider Networks of the BiblioTech Group – Tel 07785 770786, Email jim@spider-networks.net
Tony Smith, managing director, E-Telegence.com – Tel 01324 884773, Email tony.smith@e-telegence.co.uk
Hugh Paterson, Patcom for Spider Networks – Tel +33 467 55 99 12, Email hughp@patcom-media.com

Spider Networks Extends Its Reseller Web With E-Telegence

London, August 25, 2005 – Spider Networks today announces the appointment of Intelligent Online Solutions provider E-Telegence.com as an international reseller of its interactive web communications solutions. Under the terms of a business and technology agreement, E-Telegence will leverage Spider's best-of-breed solutions to develop interactive platforms on the websites of its customer base of enterprises, sports clubs, recruitment agencies and holiday tour operators.

E-Telegence.com (www.e-telegence.com) is a leading website designer and provider of Intelligent Online Solutions and is the sister company of IT support and maintenance business, Telegence Technologie. Founded in 2000 to support the growing "E" requirements of Telegence Technologies' customer base, E-Telegence.com also provides customers with a one-shop Internet solution for file servers, Internet connections, help desk support, and e-commerce.

E-Telegence.com's first deployment of Spider's solutions took place last month on the official website of SPL (Scottish Premier League) football club, Falkirk FC. By creating a subscription-based members section on Falkirk FC's website, fans all over the world can now interact with the club's managers and players using Spider's online chat forums, access the club's diary, and form fan groups to share files and photos. Each subscribing fan is provided a club-branded, virus-free email address for life (eg john@falkirkfc.net) and also receives streaming video highlights of matches, as well as pre and post match audio interviews with Falkirk's footballing guru, John Hughes.

"Deploying Spider's interactive communications tools on our website has become arguably one of the most important corporate events in Falkirk Football Club's history," says George Craig, Falkirk FC's managing director. "We've generated new sources of revenue, vastly improved communications with fans and local businesses, and re-inforced our privileged position in the Falkirk community."

Jim Conroy, Spider Network's chief executive officer, comments: "We are delighted to be working with E-Telegence to provide significant value to its embedded base of customers. Our joint delivery to Falkirk FC demonstrates the power of our solutions for the football clubs. E-Telegence has the expertise and resource to leverage Spider's solutions and develop truly interactive platforms for its customers."

About Spider Networks

Based in London, Spider Networks is the trading arm of BiblioTech, an Internet legend. Over 500,000 users in businesses, government and education use Spider's award-winning technology each day to better communicate and share knowledge in real-time from any location at anytime. For further information on Spider Network's solutions, visit www.spider-networks.net, or email enquiries@spider-networks.net.

ends