

Regenerate IT Signs Reseller Agreement With Spider Networks To Offer Spider's Subscription Webmail Solution

London, February 21, 2008 - Spider Networks today announces the appointment of Regenerate IT as a reseller of its subscription webmail offering. Regenerate IT is a Wi-Fi specialist providing a one stop solution to allow the not for profit and public sectors to create Wi-Fi "hotspots" that links the digital revolution to social and economic improvement.

Regenerate IT are offering a branded version of Spider's award-winning subscription webmail offering to their large embedded base of WiFi users in Libraries, Communities and Social Housing. Spider provides the marketing material, a Regenerate IT branded solution, online registration and billing. Regenerate IT now has a new value-added product offering for their customers and a new revenue stream at no cost.

RegenerateIT has developed a solution that is designed for use within a range of public, voluntary and not-for-profit sector scenarios that offer the very latest technological solutions for creating Broadband Wireless access at a setup and maintenance cost that to date these sector users have only dreamed of and never been able to afford.

Access to Broadband has been a mission for some time now but the arrival of wireless technology as a standard feature on all new machines and the wireless capabilities of handheld PCs and the much used PDA's and new generation of mobile phones means that wireless capability is being married to smaller and cheaper machines capable of connecting to the internet.

RegenerateIT's solution offers the perfect mix of low costs; low running costs, free or affordable access at broadband speeds and an off site run solution requiring no technological support on site or from our partners.

"Spider Networks subscription consumer offering featuring webmail, active community forums, address books, calendars, website builders and file storage is the perfect complement to our wireless offerings, says Bob Hundall, managing director of Regenerate IT. " We were delighted with how easy it was to offer our customers this new service under our own brand."

"Regenerate IT is a socially aware company providing broadband access to many people who otherwise would not be able to access the internet," says Jim Conroy, CEO of Spider Networks." "We are very pleased that they have chosen us to offer their customers a personal online environment for them to communicate via email, keep their documents and enjoy our large forum community."
